

WHEREAS, our founding fathers warned us of the dangers of allowing central bankers to control our currency, as codified under Article I Section 10 of the Constitution, “No State shall ... make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts;” and

WHEREAS, we recognize the moral hazard created by the Federal Reserve through the printing of money out of thin air by way of Congressionally-protected legalized counterfeiting operations; and

WHEREAS, we also recognize the pre-Keynesian economics definition of the word inflation as the increase in the money supply and not the resulting increase in some consumer prices; and

WHEREAS, we also recognize that inflation equals taxation without representation, and much Tea was spilled in Boston Harbor in 1773 during non-violent direct action against such injustices:
